On December 29, 2017, the Executive Branch of the Crow Tribal Government announced the voluntary closure of the Apsáalooke Nights Casino, located on the Crow Reservation. The action was taken to enable an expansion of gaming activities and an upgrade to the restaurant and gaming facilities.

The Crow Tribe is working closely with the National Indian Gaming Commission (NIGC), which has extended their support to the Tribe's expansion efforts.

"We are committed to ensuring that we provide an exceptional gaming experience to our customers when the casino re-opens," said Chairman Alvin "A.J." Not Afraid, Jr.

Apsáalooke Nights Casino features 206 gaming machines in a "smoker-friendly" facility. A deli and smoke shop is also located at the casino complex.
